

Southern Ohio Section of the American Association of Physics
Teachers (SOS/AAPT)
Spring Meeting
Saturday, April 10, 2010

Hosted by University of Cincinnati Clermont College, Batavia, Ohio

The SOS/AAPT spring meeting will feature two well-known physics teachers and speakers:

- David Sokoloff – David is Professor of Physics at the University of Oregon. He co-authored Real Time Physics: Active Learning Laboratories and Interactive Lecture Demonstrations. He is nationally and internationally known for his work in the assessment of student's learning of physics.
- Tom Greenslade – Tom is professor emeritus at Kenyon College in Gambier, Ohio. He is a frequent contributor to The Physics Teacher and has an interest in 19th and early 20th century physics teaching apparatus. He also has his own museum to house the apparatus he has collected.

- Meet with colleagues from southern and central Ohio
- Learn new ideas for your classroom
- Share your ideas by contributing a talk or “How I Do It” presentation

Spring Meeting Information

UC Clermont College, a regional campus of the University of Cincinnati, is located approximately 25 miles east of Cincinnati off of State Route 32 in Batavia, Ohio.

Everyone, including students, is invited to make a presentation. Contributed talks are typically 10 minutes in length plus two minutes for questions. Abstracts are due March 29 and can be emailed to darwin.church@uc.edu. Abstracts are not necessary for “How I Do It” presentations.

More details about the meeting will be published in a future addition of The Dialog.
